For more than 200 years, lighthouses have warned sailors of the dangerous rocks and reefs of North Carolina’s shore. Today, they still watch over the “Graveyard of the Atlantic”—the last resting place of many a ship.

Can you name our state’s seven lighthouses?

- Oak Island
- Bald Head Island
- Cape Lookout
- Ocracoke
- Cape Hatteras
- Bodie Island
- Currituck Beach

1. Cut out tower, service room, and dome, including tabs.
2. Color tower if you’d like.
3. Curl all three until the tabs slide under the opposite side of the piece, then glue.
4. Tape or glue dome on service room and service room on tower, as in drawing to left.
