

Take a look at what you'll see when you visit
the North Carolina Museum of History!

If we travel to the NCMoH by car, we will need to find parking. Parking lots and street parking are available, both with ADA accessible spots.

Depending on where we park, it might take us a couple of minutes to walk up to the building. We may have to cross a street, but there are crosswalks and sidewalks.

There are two entrances to the museum. The entrance on Edenton Street (pictured above) has stairs and is currently locked. But keep walking towards the front of the museum. Right around the corner is an accessible ramp.

The main entrance is near Edenton Street (pictured below).
It has a big set of stairs and a ramp on the right.

Once we get inside, we'll see the Information Desk.
We can ask questions there.

You can find information about accessibility at the NCMoH here.
If we need a wheelchair, we can ask the Information Desk.

Here's the entrance to *The Story of North Carolina.* This exhibit tells us about the history of North Carolina.

One fun thing to do in this exhibit is to pretend to milk a cow!

There are also exhibits on the third floor. There is a lot to touch and explore in the History in Every Direction Exhibit.

And there is a lot to see in the *Sports Hall of Fame* Exhibit - more than 200 items representing 351 Tar Heel sports heroes.

There are other temporary exhibits on the third floor, too. These change frequently, so come see what's new!

There are restrooms on every floor.

There is a Museum Shop near the main entrance of the museum with gifts and snacks.

We hope you enjoy your visit to the North Carolina Museum of History!
