Welcome to the North Carolina Museum of History! As you tour the museum, hunt for items in the exhibits and answer the following questions.

Front Steps of Museum

Say hello to Fred Olds! He was the founder of the museum. What object is he holding?

Meet the Sauratown Woman. She was a 17th-century American Indian from the Saura tribe. What vegetable is she holding in her hands?

The Story of North Carolina

Early Indians in North Carolina used dugout canoes for fishing and transportation. The canoe on display is almost 3,000 years old. Where was the canoe discovered?

Find the large statue of George Washington. Be careful! He may look a little different. Who created the statue?

Why did the artist depict the President wearing a tunic and sandals?

African Americans and some American Indians had limited dining choices for decades because of racist policies and attitudes. Change came in part because young African Americans sat peacefully at this counter and waited to be served. Where was this counter originally located?

North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame

What sport did Walter “Buck” Leonard play? What team did he play for in the Negro National League?

A Call to Arms

More than 86,000 North Carolinians served in World War I. Soldiers on both sides dug underground trenches to be protected from enemy fire. A special device allowed them to look above ground without being injured. Find the object and fill in the blanks.

Trench _ _ _ _ _ _ _ _ _ _ _

Beginning in 1969 thousands of Americans began wearing bracelets to show their support of prisoners of war (POWs) and soldiers missing in action in Vietnam. Find the bracelet featuring the name of a POW held prisoner for nearly five years. What is the soldier’s name?
Fred Olds is holding the key that unlocked the building in Halifax where the Fourth Provincial Congress signed the Halifax Resolves. The Sauratown Woman is holding corn in her outstretched hands.

The dugout canoe was discovered in Lake Phelps, Washington County. The statue of George Washington was created by Antonio Canova; the artist was Italian and honored Washington by depicting him as a powerful Roman general. The lunch counter belonged to the Woolworths located in Salisbury.

Buck Leonard played baseball for the Homestead Grays. The soldier’s name is Major Raymond Schrump. The object is a German trench periscope. The Pennsylvania (Craw) Buck Leonard played baseball for the Homestead Grays.

Located in Salisbury, the lunch counter belonged to the Woolworths. The dugout canoe was discovered in Lake Phelps.

The Sauratown Woman is holding corn in her outstretched hands. Congress signed the Halifax Resolves. The building in Halifax where the Fourth Provincial Congress signed the Halifax Resolves is held by Fred Olds, who unlocked the key that opened the building.