This guide provides an overview of what your child will learn by the end of tenth grade in English Language Arts (ELA), as well as strategies and resources for learning outside of school.

TENTH GRADE

THIS GUIDE INCLUDES:
- an introduction to the NC English Language Arts Standard Course of Study
- an explanation of the skills your child is learning in tenth grade
- reading strategies for learning outside of school
- writing strategies for learning outside of school
- websites to support your child’s learning
In April 2017, the North Carolina State Board of Education adopted new ELA standards for grades K-12. The Standard Course of Study describes what students should know, understand, and be able to do by the end of each grade level. How these standards are taught is decided at a district level.

The NC Standard Course of Study was developed based on feedback provided from the following:
- Parents
- Community Members
- Business/Industry Professionals
- Higher Education Faculty
- Educators (teachers, administrators, curriculum specialists)

THE NC STANDARDS ARE DIVIDED INTO 4 STRANDS:

READING
- Foundational Skills (K-5)
- Reading Literature
- Reading Informational Text

WRITING

SPEAKING AND LISTENING

LANGUAGE

THE NC STANDARD COURSE OF STUDY HAS A NEW FORMAT THAT INCLUDES:

- Standards with bolded terms
- Clarification of the standards with suggestions for instruction, explanations, and examples
- Glossary that defines the bolded terms from the Standards

EXAMPLE OF THE NEW FORMAT

| RL9-10.1 | Cite strong and thorough textual evidence to support analysis of what the text says explicitly as well as inferences drawn from the text. | In the Classroom:
  Students use three-column graphic organizers, and the columns are labeled as follows: “my inference,” “what the text says,” “what this evidence means.” |
|                      | analysis - a detailed examination of the components of a subject to understand its meaning and/or nature as a whole explicit, explicitly – stated clearly and directly, leaving no room for confusion or interpretation
  inference – a conclusion derived from logical reasoning following an investigation of available evidence |

* The high school standards are arranged into two grade bands: grades 9-10 and grades 11-12. The standards are arranged by grade band rather than by grade to allow for multiple years of practice. While 9th and 10th grade students are working towards mastery of the same standards, students in 10th grade practice the skills with more complex texts than students in 9th grade.
ELA STANDARDS’ EXPECTATIONS FOR TENTH GRADE

This section focuses on the key skills your child will learn throughout tenth grade, which build a solid foundation for success in later grades. The skills in each strand are broken down into topics. If your child is meeting the expectations outlined here, he or she will be well prepared for eleventh grade. The ELA Standards’ expectations for tenth grade include:

READING (LITERATURE)

KEY IDEAS AND EVIDENCE

Students:
- cite strong and thorough evidence from the text that supports their analyses of what the text says
- cite strong and thorough evidence from the text that support their inferences
- determine the theme and analyze how it is shaped and refined
- provide an objective summary of the text
- analyze how complex characters develop, interact with other characters, advance the plot, and develop the theme

CRAFT AND STRUCTURE

Students:
- understand the meaning of words and phrases in a text
- analyze how overall word choices impact the meaning and tone of the text
- analyze how the author deliberately structures a text, orders events, and manipulates time to create effects such as mystery, tension, surprise
- analyze a particular perspective or cultural experience in a text from outside of the US

INTEGRATION OF IDEAS AND ANALYSIS

Students:
- analyze the representation of a subject or key scene in two different artistic mediums
- analyze how an author adopts or adapts sources

RANGE OF READING AND THE LEVEL OF COMPLEXITY

Students:
- read and understand texts appropriate for tenth grade independently and for a sustained period of time
- connect background knowledge and experiences to texts

READING (INFORMATIONAL TEXT)

Students:
- cite strong and thorough evidence from the text that supports their analyses of what the text says
- cite strong and thorough evidence from the text that support their inferences
- determine the central idea and analyze how it is developed
- provide an objective summary of the text
- analyze how an author explains an analysis or series of ideas/events

Students:
- understand the meaning of words and phrases in a text
- analyze how overall word choices impact the meaning and tone of the text
- analyze how an author’s ideas or claims are developed by particular sentences, paragraphs, and larger portions of text
- determine an author's point of view or purpose
- analyze how the author uses rhetoric to advance the point of view or purpose

Students:
- analyze various accounts of a subject told in different mediums
- delineate and evaluate the argument and claims in a text
- tell if the claims and evidence are relevant, valid, and sufficient
- recognize false statements and deceptive reasoning
- analyze influential documents of literary and historical significance

Students:
- read and understand texts appropriate for tenth grade independently and for a sustained period of time
- connect background knowledge and experiences to texts
Writing

Text Types, Purposes, and Publishing

Students:
- organize information and ideas based on a topic to plan and prepare to write
- write argument pieces that: introduce precise claims, distinguish opposing claims, create an organization that develops relationships among claims, counterclaims, reasons, and evidence, develop the claims and counterclaims fairly, supply evidence for both, use words that link major sections and create cohesion, use words that clarify the relationship between the claim, reasons, and counterclaims, maintain a formal style and objective tone, and provide a concluding statement
- write informative pieces that: clearly introduce a topic, organize complex ideas, concepts, and information to make important connections and distinctions, use relevant facts, definitions, concrete details, examples, and quotations to develop the topic, use appropriate transitions to clarify relationships, link major sections, and create cohesion, use precise language and vocabulary, maintain a formal style and objective tone, and provide a concluding statement
- write narrative pieces that: develop real or imagined events, establish context by setting out the problem, situation or observation, establish one or more points of view, introduce the characters/narrator, create a smooth progression of events, use dialogue, descriptions, pacing, reflection, and multiple plot lines to develop events and/or characters, sequence events to build a coherent whole, use precise words/phrases, use descriptive details and sensory details to convey experiences, and provide a conclusion
- revise, edit, and rewrite based on peer and adult feedback
- use digital tools to produce, publish, and update their writing
- use digital tools to link to and display information

Research

Students:
- conduct short and sustained research projects (using several sources) to answer a question, including questions they choose, or to solve a problem
- gather and combine information from multiple print and digital sources
- use advanced searches
- assess the usefulness of the sources
- integrate learned information seamlessly (avoiding plagiarism)
- provide citations

Speaking and Listening

Collaboration and Communication

Students:
- work with peers to set rules to discuss grade level texts and topics
- set specific goals/deadlines and individual roles for discussions
- come prepared for discussions by having read or studied the material
- refer to the text and/or studied material when discussing the topic
- ask and answer questions that connect to others’ ideas

Language Standards 1 and 2 include two continuums, one for grammar and one for conventions. In grades 9-12, students apply grammar and usage skills, with increasing sophistication and effect, to create a unique style and voice. In the classroom, skills taught in previous grades will be reinforced and expanded, as needed. While the skills on the continuums are not introduced in grades 9-12, students are expected to continue applying these skills to more complex text.
STRATEGIES

ACTIVITIES TO DO AT HOME:

• Provide a time and space for your child to read every day.

• Read about an event you and your child attended or write your own accounts of an event you shared. Read the two pieces and then compare the differences between them, like the perspectives from which they were written.

• Read to your child or have your child read to you every day. Reading aloud to children, of all ages, provides opportunities to discuss more challenging and complex plots and themes which builds critical thinking skills.

• If students are auditory learners, listening to audiobooks helps many students to comprehend and interact with the text. Various websites have collections of audiobooks that students can use. Public libraries also have collections of audiobooks students may checkout online or at a physical location.

• Slowly and deliberately read and then re-read complex texts.

• Start a family book club. Let different members of the family pick the book. This could be a good way to enjoy quality family time while experiencing the joy of reading together!

• Make a short video book review of a book being read.

• Ask your child to summarize what he/she read and tell what he/she learned from what was read. This could be connected to something in real life, another reading, or to events happening in the world.

• Talk about current events together. Discuss with your child so he/she understands what is happening and how it connects to him/her, other events that he/she may have seen or read about, and other areas of the community.

• Read the same book as your child independently, together, or a combination of both. Talk about the books as you read them, reviewing central ideas and plots and expressing your opinions on the book. Then read an additional book or books on the same subject and compare and contrast how the books both dealt with the same issue. For example, read two fiction books about family, or two different texts about the same historical event or non-fiction topic.

• Find a series that interests your child and begin to read it together. You can read to your child, your child can read to you, and he can read a chapter independently.

You and your child can interview each other as you read — ask about central ideas, events, and thoughts you each have about the books and characters.

• Visit the local library and make reading fun for the entire family.

• Give your child opportunities to participate in new experiences. Visit museums, the zoo, theaters, historical sites, aquariums, etc. to help build your child’s vocabulary and speaking skills.

• Consult paraphrased/translated versions of complex texts. Students can find the original text and a corresponding modern translation online and in print. This will help students understand and appreciate the language and comprehend the plot, characters, and themes.

• Read books/magazines for enjoyment outside of class. Regular trips to the library for books, not computer time, will encourage students to read, which will strengthen their comprehension skills.

• Students can annotate the actual text by jotting information in the margins if they have their own copy of the text or take notes on another sheet of paper. When annotating, students may note the following:
  – A brief summary for each chapter or page to verify comprehension
  – Questions about events, characters, and parts of the text the student did not understand
  – Quotes and words that are important to the text or confusing
  – Literary techniques that appear to recur in the text
  – Predictions about what will happen in the text
  – Opinions about characters, their choices, or other events in the text
  – Connections to current events, other texts, movies, songs

• Students may develop graphic organizers themselves or receive them from teachers. Important information to include in the graphic organizers - sections for setting, characters, plot, summary, and questions. Students may use graphic organizers such as Cornell Notes, webs (circles or squares of information), or just a bulleted list of notes. Graphic organizers help students organize their thinking.

Regular trips to the library for books, not computer time, will encourage students to read, which will strengthen their comprehension skills.
POSSIBLE QUESTIONS/PROMPTS TO ASK AS OR AFTER YOUR CHILD READS:

- Why did the author write this?
- What can you infer from what you have read so far?
- How does the plot unfold?
- Describe the problem. How was it solved?
- What clues can you find in the sentence or paragraph that help you figure out the meaning of ______?
- What perspective is presented?
- What genres do you like to read? Why?
- Summarize the text.
- What is the central idea of the text? How is it developed?
- What argument is presented? What claims support that argument?
- What does the word ______ mean in this sentence?
- What did you do to help you figure out an unknown word?
- What textual evidence most strongly supports your analysis of the text?
- What is the theme of the story? What details help you understand the theme? How does the theme change throughout the text?
- How do the characters interact with each other?
- What do you think the author is trying to say when he/she uses the word/phrase ____?
- How does the structure of the text contribute to its meaning?
- How does the author depict the main character?
- Who is your favorite author? Why?
- What evidence from the text explains or supports the inference you made?
- What claim is presented in this section of the text?
- What strategies can you use when you don’t understand the text?
- What is the significance of this text?
WRITING STRATEGIES

Writing to express opinions, provide information, and/or create a story goes far beyond letter formation and spelling rules. In school, students are learning the writing process. Out of school, help is needed to reinforce, encourage, and support students in their writing process. Writing out of school provides a connection between writing and everyday experiences. These strategies reinforce what your student is learning in tenth grade.

ACTIVITIES TO DO AT HOME:

- Keep a notebook of ideas for use in future writings.
- Write in a journal to record events and thoughts.
- Keep a response journal to record short responses to things read or watched. These journals may include one or more of the following about what was read or watched:
  - Summary (Try to write a summary with key details)
  - Questions (I wonder about ... What would happen if ...)
  - Predictions (I think ... will happen, because ...)
  - Connections (This made me remember a time ... This was similar to something else I read or watched. This took place in a similar location to ...)
  - Quotes (The quote that seemed important to me was ... because ...)
- Write for a real purpose and/or audience:
  - Thank you notes
  - Quick note or email to a business about an inquiry or relatives about family news
  - Contributing to a family website
  - Interest letter or email about a job
- When available, suggest that your child participate in a writing contest. Local and national contests are often found online with submission details.
- Discuss family stories and history. Encourage your child to ask questions. Work together with your child to create a book, magazine, poem, short story, newspaper article, pamphlet, or other written narrative of your family’s history.
- Encourage your child to draw and/or write his/her own version of a favorite story. Or, encourage your child to create or write a next chapter (or page) for his/her favorite book.
- When your child asks a question, research the answer together using books or computers (under your supervision). Then create an informative poster or collage which tells the question, the answer, and uses both texts and illustrations to show what they learned.
- Help your child choose something that he/she wants to do or learn to do. Work with your child to research information related to the topic chosen. Ask your child to create a brochure, flyer, or “How To” manual or guide describing/explaining the topic, or how to do something. Then, together, you and your child can follow the guide to do or learn to do the chosen topic.
- Urge your child to use logical arguments to defend his/her opinion. If your child wants a raise in allowance or curfew extension, ask him/her to research and then based on that research, explain reasons why he/she should have a raise in allowance or curfew extension.
- Under your supervision, begin to help your child use a computer to research a topic or communicate with friends and family. Your child can also use the computer to write his/her own pieces or pieces you write together.
RESOURCES FOR LEARNING OUTSIDE OF SCHOOL

At home, you play an important role in your student’s academic success. You are a valuable resource for your child. The websites provided below are not an all-inclusive list, but are intended to provide quality resources for you to support your child’s learning.
