Since 1980, the North Carolina Arts Council has awarded fellowships to artists in a variety of disciplines, who have been selected through a rigorous panel screening process. These grants support artists in their development and encourage the creation of new work.

From the beginning, support for artists was seen as a foundational role for the N.C. Arts Council, recognizing the intrinsic value that a vibrant creative sector represented in a progressive state. As the 1979-81 Arts Council plan made clear, “North Carolina’s creative artists are resources for all our citizens. The works they are creating today will be our heritage tomorrow....”

That belief still resonates today and is reflected in the many programs the N.C. Arts Council sponsors, including its expanded portfolio of artist support. Fellowships have grown along with the Arts Council and now are awarded in ten art forms: choreography; craft; film/video; musical composition; playwriting; poetry; prose writing; screenwriting; song writing; and visual arts. We are proud of the legacy of the N.C. Arts Council Artist Fellowship Program, which continues today to nurture and inspire creative talent across the state.

* Owing to the commercial success of Mr. Frazier’s novel, Cold Mountain, he accepted the fellowship but declined the funds to allow the Council to devote them to other programs serving writers.
