Definition of "Other Services"

Individual and Family Adjustment Services - Representative Payee	Services offered to individuals for whom the DSS has been appointed the representative payee, including assurance of the appropriate use of income for the client's needs, and strengthening the client's basic skills in money management.
Individual and Family Adjustment Services - Paraprofessional Services	Services provided to families by paraprofessionals in support of the Case Plan. Examples of direct services are: supervising visits between parent and child; supervising children (while parents attend therapy, parenting classes, etc.) in absence of caregiver; teaching, coaching, and modeling parenting skills, home management skills, and communication skills (with resources to parents and caretakers and placement providers); teaching, coaching, modeling advocacy skills (especially as related to housing, school system, services agencies); supporting case management of neglected, abused, dependent, delinquent children; transporting/supervising/providing in loco parentis to children going to doctor visits or schools; communicating information between services providers and case managers/placement providers; and testifying in court related to specific assigned duties and client interaction (supervised visits, school visits, etc.)
Services Intake	The function of designated service staff who are assigned to handle the task of initiating clients into the service delivery system of the agency. Activities include receiving requests for services; exploring with the client his request in terms of the services available; taking applications; and such elements of case management as establishing eligibility for services, initiating the Service Client Information Record and certifying clients for purchased services. The extent to which Services Intake performs any of the above case management activities is an agency decision and is related to how broadly the agency wishes to define the intake function. Also included may be working with clients to apply eligibility criteria and determine eligibility for another agency's resources, e.g., crippled children, free school lunches. As a part of assessing with the client his request for help and the nature of his need, the designated intake staff may provide Information and Referral as a part of the tasks assigned to Intake.

Notes: Expenditures for Other Services also include expenditures for "Unreported Services", that is, expenditures not tracked to specific services (due to reimbursement/coding issues.)

As of FFY 2010, Guardianship Services are reported under Protective Services categories.

As of FFY 2010, Individual and Family Adjustment Services are reported under Counseling Services.
