Assessing Readiness of Youth

For many young people in foster care, not having a license to drive is a barrier to accessing education, healthcare, and other activities. For these youth, driving is not merely a privilege, but a route to independence. Thoughtful planning between the county child welfare agency, the young person, and the caregiver to ensure the young person is prepared to assume the responsibility of driving is key to addressing this barrier to independence.

To assess readiness, county child welfare agencies should work with youth (under age 18) and their caregivers to complete the TRIP Readiness assessment. The assessment facilitates discussion about safety issues related to medical, mental health, or emotional conditions, substance use, and other areas that may impact a young person’s judgement and safety behind the wheel. This assessment tool is used to facilitate a conversation about a young person’s readiness to drive and jointly plan to address barriers to a young person’s readiness. This assessment should not be used to create or contribute to barriers to driving.
