Chancellor Dubois welcomed everyone. He acknowledged Dr. Kathryn Johnson, Professor of UNC, Charlotte. He appreciated that the agenda was changed to accommodate his tight schedule. Chancellor Dubois informed that Superintendent Wilcox from Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools is visiting him to discuss the early college program. He gave a brief overview as follows: Currently, UNC Charlotte has 29,710 students on campus. It is the third largest in the UNC system and the second largest with respect to undergraduates. UNC Charlotte is about 30 percent of the enrollment growth in the entire UNC system since 2010. He expressed that they will reach a goal of 35,000 students by 2025. They have 84 American Indian (AI) students (74 undergraduates and the rest are graduate students). He noted UNC-Charlotte received $90M from the 2016 bond. The university has spent $1.4 B worth on campus construction since 2005. They have 75 bachelors’ program and 60 master’s programs and 23 doctoral programs. They have a very large student organization, 450 in total. They have two student organizations relating to Human Trafficking, (1) Humans for Justice (a national organization) designed to help victims of trafficking go on to achieve post-secondary education after they have been released; (2) Not in my City (invented by one of the students) This is a two-fold organization (a) Raise awareness among college students about human trafficking (help stop students that are in the situations unfolding right in front of them); (b) Raise money for human trafficking through T-shirt sales. The money is routed through an organization locally called Present Age Ministries. Chancellor Dubois informed that the website for “not in my city” has a link for T-shirt sales. PRESENTATION 1:
Vital Records – Birth Certificate Documentation-Complaints from American Indians: Ms. Eleanor Howell, Director, State Center for Health Statistics (SCHS) and Mr. James Melvin, Office of Vital Records, Department of Health and Human Services (DHHIS) presented the following:

- Discussed data and statistics process “why the data is collected?”
  - Race, ethnicity on vital records is important
  - Birth certificate, parents’ race is collected
  - Death certificate, deceased information is collected
  - The office looks for trends and disparities among the different population in NC. This data enables the Division of Vital Records to help minorities to have a happy healthy life.
  - A handout of NC Resident Population Health Data by Race and Ethnicity (Attachment A) was distributed.
  - It was noted that this record keeping may not have been how it was recorded in the past.
  - The State Center for Health Statistics (SCHS) do have ways to amend the birth certificates so that the correct information is noted on the certificates.

- Discussed NC Vital Records Amendment Process as follows:
  - Amendment process to change the parent(s’) race on a birth or death certificate was discussed.
  - Discussed the letter dated April 16, 2018, concerning the Haliwa-Saponi Tribal Chief’s questions and inquiry about how changing the race on birth and death certificates can occur. (Letter on file).
  - Discussed different types of race on Birth Certificates: American Indian (AI); Alaskan Native (AN)
  - It was pointed out that the child race is not placed on birth certificates at birth, based on state policy.
  - North Carolina Birth Certificates do indicate “Tribes”. This is where issues have occurred. A tribe is not a racial designation!
  - A handout of the NC Vital Records Amendment Process (Attachment B) was distributed.
  - Discussed amendment process to change the parent(s) race involved. Details listed on attachment B.
  - Website detail is listed on attachment B. Amendment form and other details are listed on the website at HTTPS://Vitalrecords.nc.gov/order.HTM#compform

COMMENTS FROM COMMISSION MEMBERS:

- Commission members asked clarifying questions as follows: (a) various issues related to birth certificates; (b) amendment fees; (c) Why American Indian is not listed on birth certificate; (d) race of parent is indicated on birth certificates but not race of child. To change this process legislation would have to be adopted.

- Members thought that a clarification process is needed or outright new legislation. Ms. Howell noted that the new standard for Certificate of Birth was adopted in 2010. This was the point when Vital Records collected the “Tribal Information”. It was noted that prior to 2010 tribal information was not collected. Vital information for “Death certificates” were collected in 2014.

- Ms. Howell noted that in the underline data statistics the State Center for Health Statistics (SCHS) do have American Indian checked on the individual. She expressed that due to situations discussed by members, the SCHS have investigated these issues. She noted that the information on the form need to be completed accurately.

- It was noted that the underline data in the database is corrected as American Indian but not printed on the form. This issue is what the SCHS is looking to correct. She appreciates that this issue was brought to their attention and want to make sure that it does get printed exactly how the parents complete the form, as noted on the birth worksheet in the hospital, so it matches correctly with the database.

- Multiple race recording: If there is more than one race between parents, how does the system choose the race on the birth certificate? It was noted that it will no longer be a single race, it will be recorded as multiple race. It was indicated that the combination of parent’s races is noted to determine the race of the child. Ms. Howell expressed that with the present statistical data system, everything selected on the form by the parent is printed on the birth certificate.

- Commission members expressed that the birth certificates are important when the child goes to college, for a driver’s license, tribal enrollment etc.

- Commission members asked if they need to contact the legislation or the Governor to address this issue. The consensus was that this item would need legislative action.

- Question was asked if the system is open to undo the inter-generation recording of American Indian People. If race is defined historically by parents’ race and American Indian was not listed as race there is no accountability of the child being listed as American Indian. There is a system failure and lack of inclusiveness that predates the people born in the 1950’s. How can Vital Records correct the issue for American Indians? Is there an option?

- Ms. Howell indicated that the system list what the parents identify their race at the time of the birth of the child. The system does not go back and look at the parents records to see if it matches. It was clarified that the system goes by how the form is completed by the parent. She expressed that the system will research how other states are dealing with this issue and is open to suggestions.

- Mr. James Melvin discussed the process to amend the birth certificate. His contact information is listed on page 2 of the handout (Attachment B).

- It was noted that issues related to amendments need to be addressed to Mr. Melvin to correct birth certificates.

- Mr. Melvin stated; that if there is a cost related issue it needs to be addressed with the Registrar of Deeds. This is a separate issue. In most cases, if it is system related, there is no charge. The Vital Records personnel usually amends the records at no charge.

- Question was asked on data: The allocation for a grant program is determined based on census data. So, if a person checks other on the birth form and list tribe, how does this person get recorded? Is it reported as American Indian or other and where and how do they get accounted for? Do they fall out of the American Indian count?

- Ms. Howell indicated that the Census Bureau record and collects data independently from Vital Records. It is self-reported and collected every ten years. Starting in 2000 people can select multiple race. The census also collects American Indian data between census reports. She reiterated that Census Bureau does not depend on Vital Records.

- Commission members asked how errors are corrected?
Question was asked if the grandparent or child was deceased and was entered incorrectly, how does one correct the documents? Mr. Melvin informed that the process is the same for all amendments. He noted that in some cases both birth and death need to be corrected.

Mr. Greg Richardson expressed that there appears to be a consensus today, that there is a need to ensure that when a child is born that the child’s birth certificate needs to denote the child’s race, “American Indian”. He indicated that a failure to do so will have a negative impact on American Children throughout their life time. Grant Programs, tribal enrollment, drivers license etc., require applicant to prove that they are American Indian. Therefore, American Indians need to be able to prove that they were American Indian at birth.

Mr. Richardson expressed that in some cases the law enforcement citations are showing up in court with the wrong race on them when it comes to American Indians and cause frustration and incorrect data to be entered into the DMV records.

Commission members thanked Ms. Howell and Mr. Melvin for their presentation.

The handouts NC Resident Population Health Data by Race and Ethnicity (Attachment A) and NC Vital Records Amendment Process (Attachment B) are attached and is an official part of the minutes.
