

Anti-Human Trafficking Programs

Assisting schools and youth-serving organizations on identifying and responding to human trafficking

Increasing access to culturally-specific services, resources, training, and outreach to underserved populations

Providing training and outreach to marginalized youth in target communities

Project C.O.P.E. and Project CLICC are programs within the NC Council for Women & Youth Involvement designed to

Supporting survivors in being leaders and advocates in their communities

EDUCATE & EMPOWER survivors, organizations, and communities to address human trafficking.

Collaborating with mental health agencies to provide resources to youth in schools

Partnering with shelter and housing agencies to provide resources for survivors

Developing resources in 5 targeted rural communities:

- Anson
- Bertie
- Halifax
- Harnett
- Person

Providing accessible and interactive training for domestic violence and sexual assault agencies

C.O.P.E., CLICC, and Your Community

If you're interested in taking the next step to address human trafficking in your community, Project C.O.P.E. and Project CLICC can provide trainings, educational materials, and resources to meet the needs of your community or organization.
