

Family Violence Prevention & Services Program

FVPSA is committed to providing high quality, efficient, and effective sub-recipient customer service through guidance, support services, collaboration, compliance and technical expertise during the life of the grant. Our success relies upon the success of our grantees in providing services to communities across the state and in complying with all federal and state guidelines.

FVPSA’s present initiatives include economic empowerment and increasing access to services in un-served, underserved or inadequately served communities. And increasing inclusion to Tribal communities, culturally specific communities while also focusing on trauma-informed care services, language access services, mental health access services, accessible transportation services to citizens across North Carolina.

FVPSA works to coordinate statewide improvements within local communities, social service systems, and programming regarding the prevention and intervention of family violence, domestic violence, and teen dating violence through the leadership of the State Domestic Violence Coalitions and the FVPSA State Administrator.

Some of the barriers that impact access to services due to historical or ongoing systemic and societal or community-based barriers based may include:

Race	Ethnicity	Immigration Status	Sovereignty/Indigenous Status
Sexual orientation/Gender Identity	Cultural, language and literacy barriers	Geographic location (where it creates a barrier)	Faith, spirituality or religious identity
Age: Youth and children	Age: Adults in later life	Mental disabilities or other mental health needs	Physical, cognitive or sensory disability