

DOC SHIPPING/RECEIVING SUPERVISOR II

This is second level supervisory and administrative work in the shipping, storage and receiving of goods in a large-scale warehouse and statewide distribution operation with at least 70,000 square feet of storage space and a fleet of twelve or more tractor-trailer trucks. Employees are responsible for a significant section of the operation and for directly supervising at least two or more lower-level Shipping/Receiving Supervisor I's or other similar positions. Employees supervise, plan, direct, review and evaluate the work of subordinates, oversee work performance and quality control, provide and evaluate on-the-job and outside training, counsel and administer limited discipline to subordinates and may interview and recommend applicants for vacant positions. Employees plan subordinate and inmate work assignments under an established schedule, set daily priorities and goals, make adjustments to accommodate new priorities and may establish or have input into changes to the workflow, methods and procedures. Employees typically direct, train, counsel, evaluate, discipline and monitor inmates performing generally unskilled shipping and/or receiving work including the receiving, unloading, inspecting, storing, dating and recording in inventory, pulling, loading and shipping a wide variety of goods which may include all or a combination of canned goods, janitorial supplies, clothing, food, kitchen supplies, office supplies, oil products, furniture, computers, tires, inmate canteen goods, paints and architectural coatings, signs, license tags, metal products and various other products to supply correctional institutions and support facilities, or state agencies and universities, county and local governments and school districts. Employees are responsible for the entire process in their section and make most or all of the technical decisions and perform the most complex work. Employees maintain a standard FIFO (first in, first out) inventory system and conduct and oversee cycle counts and a complete semi-annual physical inventory of all goods and materials, make product quality decisions and damage assessments, ensure that all receiving and shipping paperwork is in order and match the quantity, type, size and style and that trailers are loaded in accordance with delivery stops. Work also includes resolving problems with suppliers and customers and strictly following safety policies and OSHA and DOT guidelines for the storage and shipment of hazardous materials. Employees evaluate inmate work performance and may recommend or approve salary increases or decreases, ensure that inmates follow all rules and regulations, counsel and/or write-up inmates for infractions, and employees typically decide whether the inmate should continue on the job or be sent back to the institution. Work may include other duties and responsibilities as assigned. Work is performed under the general supervision of a higher level manager.

I. SUPERVISORY/MANAGERIAL FUNCTIONS:

Planning - Employees plan daily and/or weekly work schedules, plan and make adjustments to their section shipping/receiving schedules, and plan and establish short term priorities within established goals and objectives. Employees also plan and recommend equipment and manpower needs.

Organizing and Directing - Employees evaluate inventory turns, receiving and shipping orders, count and check goods, assign work to subordinates and inmates, make adjustments to pick or storage operations to accommodate new priorities, and make adjustments to work schedules to balance the work load.

Budgeting - Employees may assist the Distribution Manager in planning and administering budgets, but normally would only recommend manpower, equipment, raw material and other supplies.

Training - Employees evaluate the training needs of subordinate employees and assigned inmates and conduct or oversee equipment, operational task and safety training as necessary to each individual.

Setting Work Standards - Employees explain and instruct subordinates in established work rules and standards governing quality and quantity. Employees usually participate in establishing or changing these standards and can make quality (damage) determinations on their own authority.

Reviewing Work - Employees monitor work in progress and usually spot check or thoroughly inspect all completed work and can accept, amend or reject this work based on established standards. Some standards may not be established or are vague and require interpretation.

Counseling and Discipline - Employees are responsible for reviewing and resolving informal complaints, counseling inmates regarding work performance and adherence to rules, completing incident reports, and recommending firing, demoting or reassigning inmates to other functions. Employees review complaints and grievances of subordinate employees, counsel them and participate in formal actions.

Performing Other Personnel Functions - Employees may participate in interviewing subordinates or inmates for employment, recommend the hiring or retaining of inmates, determine, recommend or approve inmate salary adjustments, and conduct periodic evaluations of performance. For subordinate employees they would approve leave requests and conduct formal performance evaluations.

II. SCOPE AND NATURE OF WORK SUPERVISED:

Dynamics of Work Supervised - Shipping, receiving and warehousing operations are usually very stable with only occasional changes in methods, procedures, equipment, and work rules.

Variety of Work Supervised - Employees are primarily responsible for two or more functional areas in the warehouse and normally learn the entire operation and may function as an assistant manager.

Number of Employees Responsible For - Employees direct and supervise at least two or more subordinate employees and directly or indirectly 10-30 inmate workers.

III. EXTENT OF SUPERVISION RECEIVED:

Employees work under moderate administrative and technical review, with much of their work being evaluated by the overall performance of their section or sections. Their supervisor may review the more complex or controversial decisions, and would approve any significant change in methods or operating procedures.

IV. SPECIAL ADDITIONAL CONSIDERATIONS:

Supervision of Shift Operations - N/A

Fluctuating Work Force - Because of the correctional environment, the inmate work force may fluctuate in size along with a constant turnover in individual inmates.
