Section 5.1 a)	We are interested in providing you with a bid for 19-IFB-014764-GSX, and we have a question. We have sampled for asbestos throughout the State of North Carolina for years, and have never seen the requirement of having to be a NC certified lead renovation firm and having at least 1 NC certified lead renovator to perform an asbestos assessment. Is this something new for the State? I would think that this may be a problem for the testing companies that are bidding this project. It is not a deal breaker as we have the capability of becoming certified, we just needed to know if this is something that you all are sticking firm to and we should look at certification, or if there is some wiggle room.	The requirement of having a certified lead renovator was given under the guidance of the Department of Health and Human Services due to the age of homes in our CDBG-DR program.
